

Forestry and Agriculture

The Forestry and Agriculture sector is Indonesia's largest foreign exchange earner after oil & gas, and IBS Group is Indonesia's largest risk services provider to the sector, with asset values insured of over US$ 10 billion. We include amongst our clients major pulp and paper manufacturers, plantation owners and downstream palm oil, plywood and derivative mill producers, as well as producers of agriculture products. IBS Forestry and Agriculture Group has over 20 years dedicated experience in this field.

The Group specializes in risk management and loss control programs, insurance protection design and implementation and claims management services addressing inherent industry risks such as breakdown of critical machinery, particularly recovery boilers and turbines, wet damage to pulp in transit, fire-related losses to kiln drying processes and plantation infection. IBS Forestry and Agriculture Group employs Jakarta-based mechanical engineers, fully conversant with the industry, and insurance technicians fluent in the operational fundamentals of pulp and paper, plywood manufacturing and agriculture risks.

Manufacturing

Indonesia's broad-based manufacturing industry is exposed to specific risks ranging from interruption to just-in-time inventory supply and loss of product in transit, to product guarantees, product liability and quality control assurances required by ever-demanding foreign buyers.

IBS Manufacturing Group client list includes leading producers in the automotive, aviation, glass, electronic, pharmaceutical, textile and telecommunication sectors for whom we develop cost-effective, responsive and innovative insurance programs, tailored to the risk profile of each client.
